The Power of Storytelling and Listening to Learn
Dr. Jing Paul
October 12, 2023 | 7:00 pm
Phi Gamma Hall | Oxford Campus (Hybrid)

Storytelling is an essential human experience across languages and cultures. By listening to each other’s stories, we connect, heal, and grow. Dr. Paul will use stories from the classroom, student experiences, and personal experiences to introduce a storytelling project implemented in her Chinese language courses. Connecting the broader discussion to “why should we listen,” Dr. Paul will showcase how the opportunities to express, and be heard, promote learner agency and create multiple pathways of growth. Joined by a panel of Oxford faculty, students, and alumni, the group will share their stories and reflections on AAPI Identity.

Dr. Catherine Cenzia Choy
October 13, 2023 | 11:00 am
Convocation Hall | Atlanta Campus (Hybrid)

The histories of Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders are dynamic. Knowledge of this rich history provides an opportunity to better understand AAPI challenges, contributions, and joys. The strengths of AAPI histories – expressed through diverse origins, traditions, and forms – cultivates empathy and belonging, resists erasure and generates awe.

The AAPI Experience at Emory
October 13, 2023 | 1:45 pm
Convocation Hall | Atlanta Campus

There is no, single, AAPI “history” or “experience.” How do we, One Emory, gain insight into, and make sense of, the historical, cultural, sociological, political, and psychological factors that affect those who identify as Asian American or Pacific Islander? Dr. Chris Suh, Emory College of Arts and Sciences, will facilitate a discussion highlighting the voices and experiences of AAPI students, faculty, and staff at Emory.
