Hello,

I hope this letter finds you well. My name is Cicely Jackson, and I am honored to be Miss South Atlanta 2025. As a dedicated advocate for mental health awareness and community service, I am thrilled to take the next step in my journey by competing in the Miss Georgia Competition this June, an official licensee of the Miss America Organization.

This competition is more than a title—it is an opportunity to amplify my platform, "Building a Soulful Foundation," which focuses on providing underserved youth with the resources and support they need to thrive. Throughout my time at Emory University, I have worked to uplift my community through mentorship programs, advocacy efforts, and initiatives that empower young people to reach their full potential.

However, preparing for Miss Georgia comes with significant expenses, and I am reaching out to ask for your support in making this dream a reality. Your sponsorship will help cover essential costs, including:

- Program Ads ($350 each): Two required advertisements supporting my candidacy
- Fundraising Minimum ($300): Contributions to the Miss Georgia Scholarship Fund
- Auction Item ($100+ value): A donation of a product or service for the competition's fundraising efforts
- Personal Preparation ($2,000 goal): Travel, housing, wardrobe, hair and makeup, and other competition-related expenses

Any contribution, whether through financial sponsorship or an auction item donation, would mean the world to me. As a sponsor for the ads, you will receive recognition in the official Miss Georgia program book, ensuring visibility for your generosity and community involvement. Additionally, all donations can be made through a 501(c)(3) organization, making them tax-deductible.

If you are interested in sponsoring me, please let me know at your earliest convenience. In addition, please let me know where you would like for your donation to be allocated. I would love to discuss ways to collaborate and highlight your support.

Thank you for considering this opportunity to invest in my journey. With your support, I can take the stage at Miss Georgia with confidence, ready to represent South Atlanta and continue making a meaningful impact in my community.

With gratitude,

Cicely Jackson
